VOA News.com - Irish Cabinet 'Fully in Favor' of Retaining US Customs Pre-Clearance

VOA News reports Ireland's cabinet is fully in favor of retaining CBP Pre-clearance arrangements at the country's airports, Prime Minister Enda Kenny said on Tuesday, a day after calling for a review of the arrangements. Ireland's Dublin and Shannon airports are among a handful of locations outside North America where passengers can clear customs and immigration before traveling to the U.S. under an international agreement between the two governments.

WHEC.com - Travelers could see longer wait times at the Canadian border

WHEC reports if you're planning to head to Canada anytime soon, you might be facing a longer wait at the border. As a part of his executive order on immigration, President Trump wants to enhance the biometric screening system. The biometric screening system is the background check system that includes fingerprinting and facial recognition. When someone who isn't a citizen comes into the U.S., they already have to go through the biometric system, but Mr. Trump wants them to also pass the biometric tracking standards to leave the country. This process could create longer lines at the border.

Fox News reports in his first television interview as DHS Secretary, retired four-star Marine Gen. John F. Kelly told Fox News he wants the U.S.-Mexico border wall finished in two years – setting an ambitious schedule for the project ordered last week by President Trump. "The wall will be built where it's needed first, and then it will be filled in. That's the way I look at it," Kelly said. "I really hope to have it done within the next two years."

system, according to a report by FCW. This marks the second time in a year the biometric program's development has been expedited. In January 2016, DHS Secretary Jeh Johnson stated in a report to Congress and at a hearing testimony that he had recommended to CBP that they "redouble its efforts to achieve a biometric entry/exit system, and to begin implementing biometric exit, starting at the highest volume airports." He said it would cost a billions of dollars to outfit CBP officers with mobile handheld biometric devices for exit tracking purposes while the implementation of individual biometric exit kiosks at every gate in every U.S. airport and other departure points would be excessively costly. At the time, Johnson said the goal was to have the biometric entry/exit system fully implemented at the high-volume airports by 2018.

Reuters.com - Some nations affected by U.S. immigration order may stay on list

Reuters reports Nationals from seven Muslim-majority countries temporarily barred from the United States by President Donald Trump's executive order may be blocked indefinitely, and others might be added to the list, Homeland Security Secretary John Kelly said on Tuesday. "Some of those countries that are currently on the list may not be taken off the list anytime soon, if they are countries that are in various states of collapse, as an example," Kelly told a press conference. Confusion mounted during the weekend as CBP, an agency under DHS, rushed to brief airlines and customs agents about how to implement Trump's order. The executive action was not explicit about how to handle a wide range of people trying to enter the U.S., including permanent residents, students and even Iraqi pilots training to protect U.S. troops.

Lifezette.com - DHS Secretary: 'I Will Not Gamble with American Lives'

Lifezette reports DHS Secretary John Kelly on Tuesday calmly sought to put into perspective President Donald Trump's executive order temporarily halting the refugee program and travel from some countries. Kelly said at a news conference the move was not out of the ordinary, is not a "travel ban," and is not based on religion. Kevin McAleenan, the acting CBP Commissioner, said at the Homeland Security news conference that 1 million travelers have passed across U.S. borders in the 72 hours since Trump signed the executive order on Friday. Of those, 500,000 were foreigners. And of that number, U.S. customs officials detained just 721 people.

other household items. While inspecting rice contained in the boxes, the specialists discovered a suspected Trogoderma specimen and related skins. The specimen was sent to the local USDA office for a final determination and they confirmed that the specimen was a Trogoderma granarium Everts. "CBP Agriculture Specialists have once again made a critical intercept of a destructive pest that could potentially cause grave damage to our agricultural and economic vitality," said Robert E. Extra Crispy reports these are dark times—especially for avocado lovers. Between President Donald Trump's threats to renegotiate the North American Free Trade Agreement and his proposed 20 percent tax on goods imported from Mexico to build that wall, there's a good chance that, at some point in the near future, there will be fewer avocados available to Americans, and those that will make it to grocery stores are going to be more expensive and of lower quality. So when you hear that 100 tons of avocados from Mexico were turned away at the US border last week, it's easy to freak out and chalk it all up to the pending avocado apocalypse. (Avo-pocalypse? “Following Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approval, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) added an optional question to the Electronic System for Travel Authorization (ESTA) application requesting the voluntary submission of an applicant’s social media account identifiers. The question was added as part of the agency’s efforts to enhance the vetting of travelers to the United States. Information found in social media may be used to review ESTA applications to validate legitimate travel, adjudicate VWP ineligibility waivers, and identify potential threats.

“CBP remains committed to protecting the privacy, civil rights, and civil liberties of all travelers. CBP will handle the voluntarily-provided social media identifiers in the same manner as other information collected through ESTA and has documented these procedures in the newly updated System of Notice Records Notice and Privacy Impact Assessment available at dhs.gov/privacy.”

1/31: (b)(6) with Bloomberg BNA had two questions regarding CBP's final rule on TSCA importation. Q1: Has the effective date of the final rule been delayed until March 21? R1: Yes, the effective date of the rule was delayed until March 21, 2017. Q2: Is the electronic filing an option—but not a requirement, i.e. importers could still provide certification by paper? R1: The final rule, for which the effective date has been delayed, would allow for the filing of the TSCA certification to be either in writing or electronic.

ITT has been directed to DHS on their inquiries involving EOs.

Lead: (b)(6), (b)(7)(C)

1/26: (b)(6), (b)(7)(C) saw a trade group released some advice it got from CBP about HTS changes and a dumping case that involves some changed HTS codes. Is the below right? If so, does CBP have anything more to add that he should include in his story? ACE will accept entry lines filed with HTS numbers that are not yet in the AD/CVD case reference file HTS tab. Filing the entries as such WILL NOT create a reject. An informational message is all that will be sent back to the broker. It will allow entry as a type 03 with the case number added. If no case number is added then it will not allow a type 03 entry. (This means you will need to correct it later.) This information was submitted out to the trade community via CSMS Message #16-000466 dated 06/07/2016. If an issue is occurring, where a broker cannot file an entry/entry summary, it is due to either a reject for another issue on the entry/entry summary or their filing software. The broker should investigate their error messages and contact their software vendor to ask for the software validations to be relaxed to allow for the case number to be filed in conjunction with the HTS number. His deadline is tomorrow at 2 pm for a publication on 1/27, or when we have a response.

The reporter would like to visit the Rio Grande Valley and see first-hand the operations, facilities or other related locations that would provide the reporter the best sense of the situation in the part of the border. 1/24: Update: Reporter interviewed personnel with the International Boundary Commission and reached back to CBP for comment on the following questions and was provided the respective answers: 1. Does USCBP staff ever interface with IBC staff when IBC staff are doing their work along the Washington/British Columbia border? If so, can you describe how often, what that looks like, etc.: The U.S. Border Patrol in Blaine Sector does interact with the International Boundary Commission on occasion. IBC supervisors and station leadership have met (or been notified via telephone or email) in advance of projects of joint concern prior to work being done. (The Border Patrol is interested in being notified of any legitimate activity occurring at or near the border). Informal interaction between IBC workers and Border Patrol Agents occur between agents in the field and IBC workers on the border incidental to each working in the same area. 2. Is there some kind of regular administrative communication between USCBP and IBC staff? How often? How formal/informal, etc.? There does not currently exist regular formal scheduled administrative communication between the IBC and U.S. Border Patrol in Blaine, Washington. However, the agencies are familiar enough about each other's mission, there is communication whenever one agency's work may impact the other. An example would be when the IBC is going to perform maintenance or brush clearing on the border the IBC would contact Blaine Sector and/or station leadership and let them know they will be working in the area at a particular place and time. This information would be passed down to the agents in the field so they are aware of this activity on or near the border.
